

1 ABSTRACT

2 The invention provides a method and system for quickly and preemptively 3 controlling the outbreak of destructive software applications sent in an electronic 4 messaging system. Such system and method provide an additional component to an 5 electronic messaging system to detect and block possible malicious applications in 6 attachments of electronic messages. The additional component can be customized to suit 7 the electronic messaging system and reconfigured to accommodate future virus threats.